Subject: Letter Of Intention

Respected CRO,

I am writing this letter of intention to show my keen interest for working at the position of the board of governors as a student's representative. I would like to start off by saying that I take pleasure in becoming the voice for the students in college and making them feel heard as a member of the board of governors.

I possess many crucial qualities that are required of a student representative like I love meeting new people and networking with them, I also admire and respect all the different cultures and I'm always willing to participate in new activities and events. I also tend to communicate and bond with people very well; I also have very effective organization skills that will help to deal with all the new business brought forward to the board. As for my qualifications I passed my higher secondary in science stream with 70% and now I am pursuing Fitness and Health Promotion in this college. I have led many events and activities when I was in higher secondary as I was elected as a vice- prefect. I led my fellow- students in sports events and various special events like annual day, quiz competitions etc. and made sure that everyone felt motivated and had the excitement for participating.

I started taking interest in the student government as I started attending more and more events that were held by them and the campaign done to promote student government elections just ignited motivation in me to opt for it. Also, the ethics and ambitions of the student government to provide the students with welcoming facilities and taking initiatives to support them are very important for me too as a student myself. So, leading to it I am applying for the board of governors' position as I'm looking forward to socializing with the students and represent their interests at best. I will try my best to make rational decisions and abide by the rules and regulations of the meetings that will be held.

I think that getting involved with the student government will help me a lot in the future because I'll get practical experience and learn to engage with a diverse group of people. It will also enhance my resume and people skills. So, it would be really beneficial for me in the future as I'm planning on getting my bachelor's and getting in the fitness industry where there is so much diversity and competition too.

I have had leadership experiences in the past. As I mentioned earlier, I was elected as a vice- prefect for my group, so I organized and lead various events and competitions. I volunteered in a rally for justice for a girl who was raped in our city and made boards and signs to show our support. Hence, I would say people tend to listen when I speak, and I also have very good conflict- solving skills as I always try to find common ground.

Ultimately, I am very excited about participating in the elections and giving back to my college. Thank You.

Kindest Regards,

Eva Honest.
