Dear CRO,

I am writing to express my sincere intention to run for the position of Student Equity, Diversity, and Inclusion (EDI) at Loyalist College, Belleville. As a passionate advocate for equality and inclusivity, I am eager to contribute my skills, experiences, and dedication to fostering a more equitable and inclusive campus community.

I strongly think that having different kinds of people in schools is really important. It makes learning more interesting and helps us come up with new ideas, understand each other better, and make society better. If elected, I am committed to working collaboratively with students, faculty, and staff to implement initiatives that promote diversity, equity, and inclusion across all facets of campus life.

With regards to how I can contribute to the role of Student EDI, I bring to the table a unique blend of experiences, skills, and perspectives. As a certified personal trainer /fitness instructor, I have perfected my ability to listen, empathize, and engage with individuals from diverse backgrounds. Moreover, my academic coursework in Fitness & Health Promotion (and being the only African) has equipped me with a deep understanding of the complex issues surrounding equity and diversity, as well as the strategies necessary to address them effectively. I had also participated in the Cultural day event organized by student life as one of the volunteers.

Furthermore, I have demonstrated leadership abilities through my involvement in my class group activities. As a Certified Personal Trainer, I have successfully organized and led group classes initiatives aimed at promoting diversity, fostering dialogue, and inclusivity. I am confident that my leadership experience, coupled with my passion for social justice, will enable me to effectively represent the interests and concerns of the student body.

In terms of my career plans, I think being Student EDI will let me help out on campus and help me grow personally and professionally. By working with people from different backgrounds and sharing ideas, I expect to learn a lot and become better at making positive changes in school and work.

In conclusion, I am deeply committed to promoting the principles of equity, diversity, and inclusion within our college community. I am a good listener, I am passionate about advocacy, I understand the importance of inclusivity, I have lived the experience and I am eager to leverage my skills, experiences, and passion to serve as an advocate and ally for underrepresented groups on campus. Thank you for considering my candidacy, and I look forward to the opportunity to contribute to the betterment of our college.

Sincerely,

Temitope.
